

The Institute for Migration Studies

is pleased to invite you to

“There are no friends here”

“This paper begins by examining discourses about friendship expressed by Lebanese around the world to move to examine what might be a constitutive injury of Lebanese voluntary migration. Through this analysis the paper reflects on some of the structures of immigrant subjectivity and further still on some of the particularities of the Lebanese experience of capitalist modernity.”

As discussed and presented by Dr. Ghassan Hage

Thursday, March 31, 2011
in Dr.Najla Atiyah 1303, Lebanese American University, Beirut Campus from 5:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m